NUM'AXES, A FOUNDING MEMBER OF ECMA™

The Electronic Collar Manufacturer Association (ECMA™) was created in March 2004 as a result of increasing awareness from different manufacturers concerning the necessity of regulating their industry.

All the members continuously endeavour to improve their products and user guides, enabling effective and reliable training while protecting animal welfare.

- Well-trained pets enjoy a better quality of life because they have more freedom to explore their environment in safety.
- Effective and unobtrusive containment systems protect pets from hazards while allowing them freedom to explore a predetermined safe environment.
- Humane bark control products manage nuisance barking quickly and effectively, enabling dogs to remain in loving households within urban environments.

All ECMA™ members' products meet the latest Technical Requirements, which enable training while protecting animal welfare.

All members' user guides use the ECMA™ Code of Practice as a reference providing consistent instructions for effective training techniques while protecting animal welfare.

The Technical Requirements and Code of Practice apply to electronic stimulation, vibration, ultrasonic, sonic and spray collars (remote trainers, bark control collars and containment fences), pet tracking systems and any other companion electronic training devices.

ECMA™ is committed to improving the quality of life of pets while protecting animal welfare.

ECMA™ welcomes debate of robust scientific evidence with a view to constantly improving the effectiveness and safety of products.
